FROZEN: Pipe, traffic and business flow slowed by coldest weather in decades

By LISA BICKNELL

CV&T News Editor

Estill Countians might have been thinking they were going to get by without a lot of winter weather this year.

But that was before ol' man winter came roaring through, dumping more than a foot of snow on some areas of the county.

Then the bottom fell out of the thermometers. On Friday morning, Estill County saw some of the coldest air in decades with temperatures plunging to the negative twenties.

The snow and cold created a slew of problems, one of the greatest being with the county's water supply.

A press release issued by Estill County Emergency Management Services on Monday said there was a critical water shortage county-wide. Fifteen hundred customers were totally without water and many others were experiencing low water pressure.

The water companies issued a boil water advisory for the entire county.

The shortage was caused by a number of factors, including the fact that a large number of people have been leaving water running to prevent the freezing of pipes.

After temperatures rose above freezing, many pipes burst, and those breaks contributed to the higher than usual demand on water.

To make matters worse, about 85 KU customers were without power on Saturday for about three hours. The water plant was one of those customers and was unable to pump water at all during that time, causing their supply to be further depleted.

Melting snow caused the river to rise, and the water treatment plant had problems with the intake, where water is pumped in from the river, getting clogged with chunks of ice and debris.

Workers at the water plant were forced to shut off the intake and blow the debris out with an air compressor every 20 minutes on Monday, while they awaited the arrival of another pump from Cincinnati.

With the news of the critical shortage and the boil water advisory, stores began to sell out of bottled water quickly.

Brian Crowe, with IMU, said water supply was expected to be short for two or three days, possibly as long as a week.

The water company wasn't the only one to have problems.

A Kentucky Utilities power outage Friday morning left approximately 3,500 people without electricity for about six hours.

Nearby Waco recorded the lowest temperature in the state on Friday morning at 32 below zero at Eastern Kentucky University's Meadowbrook Farms.

Governor Beshear declared a state of emergency. Many workplaces closed. Most of the courthouse offices were closed or on a delay schedule through Thursday.

Local businesses continued to suffer after the main roads cleared, because parking lots were still snow covered.

Driveways and parking lots continued to pose problems for several days following the snowstorm.

The county opened a warming shelter at Estill Springs Elementary to provide a place to find a hot meal or even a warm bed for anyone who needed them.

School was dismissed for all last week, and was closed again on Monday and Tuesday.

State and county road crews have been busy. Roy Arvin, supervisor of Estill County's state highway department, said on Monday that state roads were clear and mostly dry. State trucks were parked so drivers could clean and service them.

Board seeks to close achievement gaps

South Irvine re-roof, high school bleacher replacement plans move forward

By LISA BICKNELL

CV&T News Editor

Assistant Superintendent Tonya Isaacs kicked off Thursday night's school board meeting with a report on a resolution from the Kentucky Board of Education to close achievement gaps across the state.

She explained changes to the state's accountability model, which include establishing a "novice reduction goal" so that schools and districts can earn points based on the percentage of their annual goal that is met by "gap" groups. These groups include minorities, students with disabilities, or children in poverty.

Isaacs said the new model gives schools credit for moving students up in performance categories, or maintaining performance, but not for sliding back.

It also weighs achievement, gap and growth equally, whereas before performance was measured at 30, 30 and 40 percent respectively.

Isaacs said the changes were good and would help hold schools accountable to reach the gap groups.

Superintendent Randall Christopher and Isaacs also reported on the district's new self-imposed 30-60-90 model for improving student achievement over the short term.

Family loses everything on coldest night

These children, an older sister and their mother had to flee from their burning home on the coldest night in decades.

By LISA BICKNELL

CV&T News Editor

On the coldest night in decades, an Estill County mother and four of her children were forced to flee their burning home with only the clothes on their back.

Last Thursday night, Dowana Lynch Townsend and her kids were ready for bed when a kerosene heater in their basement exploded, and the house quickly caught fire.

They didn't even have time to put on coats and shoes before they had to run from the building.

The home was located on Lynch Road in the Drip Rock area.

By the time the fire department got there from

Winston, where they had responded to another call, the house was fully engulfed in flames.

Fireman Chad Neal said trucks had no trouble getting to the remote rural area, but the smaller trucks only held 1000 gallons of water each, which was not enough to extinguish the fire.

Marrs joins staff of CVT

Marla Marrs recently joined the CV&T staff. She is a graphic designer and a photographer.

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

The Citizen Voice and Times is delighted to welcome Marla Marrs to the staff.

She will be putting her considerable photography and graphic design skills to work to enhance the look of the paper. Occasionally, she may even do a little beat reporting.

Marla says design and photography are both things she enjoys doing.

“I’ve always enjoyed art of any sort,” she said. “It’s something I kind of just stumbled upon, and I stuck with it.”

Marla acquired her first camera at the age of sixteen, and she’s been capturing special moments ever since.

In September of 2009, Marla was featured in the CV&T as a “Picture Perfect Petite Photographer” by CV&T contributor Don White. Marla was a senior in high school then and was shooting pictures for the yearbook. She had already assembled an impressive portfolio of photographs at that time.

Since then, Marla has earned her bachelor’s degree in graphic design from Eastern Kentucky University. She was employed by Wall Street Greetings in Versailles for a while.

She also likes to photograph children, couples, seniors, portraits and family portraits, as well as engagements, weddings, events, and more.

Marla is the 24-year old daughter of Fred and Brenda Marrs. She has a twin brother named Matthew, and two older siblings, Ashley Comley Rudolph and Trae Comley.

Arvin said the state is still in good shape as far as the salt supply goes.

Fuel vendors like Hardy Gas worked frantically to fill orders.

Melissa Jesse, with Estill Emergency Services, credited the rescue squad, as well as city fire and Hargett fire departments with working around the clock to come to the aid of citizens.

“I really want to stress how hard they have been working,” she said, noting that the rescue squad had been sleeping on cots at the EMS building and living on Little Debbie cakes and cold fried chicken all week.

On Friday, though, they were treated to a hot meal at Estill Springs Elementary, where a temporary warming shelter was set up.

Chris Mitchell, captain of the rescue squad, said there had been surprisingly few wrecks on the days following the snowstorm. He said folks tend to drive more carefully.

The majority of calls to the rescue squad had come from folks needing life-saving medicines, rides to doctor appointments, or help getting unstuck from the deep snow, he said.

The rescue squad also provided rides for health professionals to get to their jobs at the hospital or nursing home.

A n o t h e r winter storm warning was issued for Friday night and Saturday, but temperatures warmed sooner than expected, with much of the precipitation coming in the form of rain.

However, that created another set of problems, with the water pipes bursting and some flooding.

Temperatures were back in the single digits at the first of the week and were expected to remain below freezing for most of the week.

FIRE

A truck from the Waco fire department also responded, but the air was so cold that the hoses froze in route, creating further difficulties.

The house burned to the ground, and the family lost all their possessions.

Dowana and the oldest daughter present were taken to the hospital by a family member where they were treated for frostbite.

Another daughter said the three younger children’s feet were not frostbitten as badly, because Dowana and the older daughter carried them away from the fire.

Dowana’s mother lives within sight of the home, and the displaced family has been staying with her.

The home was insured, but all their personal belongings were destroyed.

Dowana has cared for several foster children over the years. She raised five biological children, and has recently adopted three small children.

Dowana also has 15 grandchildren, several of whom are adopted children.

Anyone who would like to donate clothing or household items to this family may call 606-643-5016.

A fund is being set up for the family at Citizen’s Guaranty Bank on River Drive where cash donations can be made.

ACHIEVE

Christopher said he and Isaacs have spoken with each principal about what they can do to improve schools and turn short term goals into a systemic 36 month improvement plan.

South Irvine Principal Lisa Reece gave an example of her school’s 30-60-90 day goal. She said staff at her school has set two immediate objectives: to inform the school and parents about school readiness and to make measurable gains in math and reading scores.

Christopher said he wanted to publicly thank staff throughout the district for coming together to work toward new school improvement goals.

In other communications, Lisa Reece announced that South Irvine P-K Center received a $41,000 math grant. She said they have been the recipient of the grant for the past eight years, but had to re-apply for it and were fortunate to receive it again.

Roland Mueller, an architect with Ross Tarrant, explained the latest building and grounds plans for the South Irvine re-roofing project and the addition to the back of the school’s kitchen of a new cooler/freezer and office space.

He said bids would be accepted in April, construction should start at the beginning of June, and the project should be completed by the end of October.

He also said the high school bleacher replacement project will accept bids the first of May, and construction should start about the first of June.

The South Irvine project is estimated to cost $940,000, and the bleacher project is estimated to cost $500,000. Those costs may be less, depending on the bidding.

The buildings and grounds plans were approved with other consent items.

“Where will all this money come from?” asked Jerry Kelly, a citizen attending the meeting.

He wondered if the board would have to raise taxes to pay for the projects, to which Christopher responded that the funds are based on the district’s bonding potential. That is based on capital outlay dollars which are multiplied by average daily attendance, Schools Facility Construction Commission’s offers of assistance, and the nickel tax (five cents for every $100 collected by the sheriff’s department and doubled by the state).

Christopher said the building funds are separate from the general fund, and would require no additional taxes for the aforementioned projects.

Other consent items approved include an offer to purchase or lease land by the Kentucky Department of Transportation for Highway 89 improvements.

It was accepted for the amount of $4,000. The property includes a narrow strip of property in front of Estill Springs Elementary.

A medical leave of absence request was granted to a district employee for the remainder of this school year.

A section 7 request for three high school students to attend the FCCLA State Leadership meeting was approved.

The school board approved the employment of Amanda Campbell and Shonda Thomas as teachers at South Irvine, Blake Crowe as a teacher at the high school, Andrea Williams as assistant principal at the middle school, and Sharon Horn as a cook at South Irvine Elementary.

Those employed as substitutes include Katelyn Martin, as a teacher, Tammi Milby as a para-educator, and Brenda Patrick, as a teacher.

Leslie Cornett was hired as the co-head/assistant academic team coach at the middle school, and she was also hired as the assistant academic coach for the high school.

Amanda Beckler’s resignation from her position as a substitute para-educator was approved.

The school board agreed to move fall break back to the first full week of October, or, October 5-9.

Fiscal court learns road funds decreased

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

The fiscal court meeting on Monday night mostly concerned budgetary matters. The court heard from Craig Lindon, with District 10 Department of Transportation, as he explained how lower gas prices have resulted in a drop in the amount of revenue collected by the gasoline tax. He told the court to expect a 10 percent across the board reduction in rural municipal aid funds and said some state-funded projects might have to be postponed. Lindon said the state recommends three resurfacing projects be moved forward, including one on Hwy. 499, (West Irvine-Wisemantown-Blackburn Rd.-and Reges Road area, one on Hwy. 594 at Crooked Creek-Red Lick, and a section on Hwy. 1209 at Wagersville-Alumbaugh-Arvel Rd. He said the county could rank the projects, or present others if needed, but the court chose to proceed with the three above in the order listed. Additional monies will be allotted by the State Department of Highways for major primary roads, including resurfacing the bypass on Hwy.499, Coal Wash Road (Hwy.1840), a section of Hwy. 52 to 1571 at the junction of Pitts Road, and a two mile section of Hwy. 89 two miles from the Jackson County line. Darrell Johnson, the Magistrate from District 3, told Lindon he had had several people ask if there are any future plans to paint the bridge. Lindon said he could check in on it. Lindon also wondered what the court and constituents reaction would be to putting a two-lane bridge at Hwy. 1571, and possibly closing the one lane overpass just out of Ravenna. Magistrate Johnson said that would go over like a “lead balloon,” and Magistrate Rader said that end of Ravenna has never been cut off, and that emergency vehicles would have to go around Old Pike

Road. In other business, the reimbursement of excess fees from the Sheriff’s department was accepted into the minutes. Total receipts to the sheriff’s department were $304,949.84 and total disbursements were $236,609.96. The amount remitted to the court was $68,339.88. As is customary, the Sheriff Gary Freeman requested reimbursement for the excess fees, less the $26,801.96 owed to the Estill County Fiscal Court for reimbursement of payroll. The court approved the reimbursement of $41,537.92 to the sheriff’s office. The treasurer’s report was approved, including intrafund transfers from the general fund to the jail for the amount of $100,000, from CMRS to general for the amount of $15,000, and the road fund to general for the amount of $30,000. The next regularly scheduled fiscal court meeting is on March 16, at 6 p.m.

Police Beats

Sheriff’s Office
2-14 Roy Don McIntosh, Jr., 48, of Robbinsville Loop, Richmond, was charged with theft by unlawful taking or disposition for taking three knives from Picker’s Paradise. The action was caught on video tape. McIntosh admitted the theft and returned the items, according to a report from the sheriff’s office.

2-21 Wilma Miller, 52, of Oak Tree Inn, Irvine, was arrested on a suspended or revoked operator’s licence charge after she was involved in an accident, according to report from the sheriff’s office.
2-20 Michael Fox, 35, of 635 Low Gap Road was involved in a fight with his father, Ellis. When Sheriff’s Deputy Ethan Jordan arrived on the scene, he found Fox causing a disturbance. The police report stated that Fox’s eyes were glassy and his pupils constricted. It also stated that he admitted to using suboxone.
Irvine Police Department
2-17 Nathan McIntosh, of 431 North Madison, was served a warrant of arrest from Madison District Court. The warrant stated that McIntosh intentionally caused physical injury to another person with a deadly weapon or a dangerous instrument. During a fight, he allegedly chased a man around a vehicle with a knife in his hand. When the man put his hands up to defend himself, he was severely cut on the hand, and was taken to the hospital where he had about 20 stitches. McIntosh was charged with assault, second degree. He was also served a warrant for failure to appear for arraignment. Officer Karl Rifembark served the warrants.

2-22 Chryl Baker, also known as Chyrl Johnson, 44, of 588 Ratliff Ridge, Beattyville, was at the Marcum and Wallace Memorial Hospital with her husband, where she reportedly smelled strongly of alcohol. Her speech was said to be slurred, and she was unsteady on her feet. She told police she drank several shots on her way to the hospital, the police report said. It also said she created a disturbance at the hospital in front of a number of people. IPD Officer John Sturniolo made the arrest.

Zoning prohibits shelter in city, council says

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

The proposed temporary warming shelter on River Drive was again the focus of much discussion at the Irvine City Council meeting on Monday night. Gina McKinney, representing Helping Hands Outreach Ministry, asked the council what concerns they have about plans for a shelter to be located in a house that is behind the River Drive Christian Church. She explained that it is only meant to be used as a temporary warming shelter. “We anticipate a building out in the county which we will eventually also use as a homeless shelter,” she said. McKinney said the board members of the ministry had talked to Jack Rivel, Irvine’s director of planning and zoning, who had advised them that no restrictions or permits would be required. Councilman Tim Burkhart said the proposed shelter was in zone R2, which is restricted for use as single family homes or duplexes. City Attorney Rodney Davis agreed that the house is clearly within a zoning restricted area. Councilman Billy Arthur asked if there had been many people coming to the temporary shelter opened by the county at Estill Springs Elementary. McKinney said the warming shelter was open all week, and that they fed some people, but no one spent the night. When asked if there could be an exemption made in zoning for the shelter, Attorney Davis said an application could be made with the zoning board for an exemption, which would then come back to the council for approval. McKinney said she realized there are some underlying concerns of the “particular company we are going to keep,” but said the outreach has spoken with the police and fire departments, as well as a local domestic abuse shelter, to “try to cover our tracks.” “The county has no zoning,” said Councilman Burkhart. “Is there not a church in the county where you can do this?” Councilman Arthur wondered why the shelter did not locate in Ravenna, and McKinney said the building would cost too much to renovate, and there were some environmental problems. The building is instead being used to house supplies for Helping Hands Outreach Ministry. “We’re not here to cause disruption, we want to help people,” said McKinney. In other business, Mayor W.J. Noland said he would like to send a zoning board member and a city employee to a couple of trainings so they could report back to instruct others. “We can’t afford to send them all,” he said. Mayor Noland recommended Regina Robertson to the I.M.U. Board of Commissioners, and Councilwoman Janice Bush made a motion to accept that recommendation. However, the motion died for lack of a second when a couple of council members said they thought current commissioner Jr. Blackwell should be notified to make sure he was not interested in serving another term. Around the table, Fire Chief Tony Murphy said, “We are in very, very dire straits as far as the water situation goes.” He urged everyone to be careful to be “fire safe” because of the water shortage. Murphy also said the fire department had been very busy within the city, responding to calls about water pipes that had burst. Councilman Burkhart asked if some of the snow could be hauled from the streets before court on Wednesday, and Councilwoman Nelle Williams wondered exactly what kind of snow removal equipment the city has. Noland said the city has one truck with a salt spreader and a scraper blade. He also said (if the city gets it) the new truck won’t be available for this season. Williams said she thought the city needed a back-up plan. The mayor said they would look into it the next day, and the meeting was adjourned. The Irvine City Council will meet again on March 9, 2015 at 7 p.m.

Wacky winter weather arrives late, hopefully will depart soon

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

It was the winter that almost wasn't...but then, there it was. Suddenly we were blasted with some of the most bitterly cold and snowy weather we've had in a long while. The past couple of weeks have been challenging for most everyone, but it's heartwarming to see people so ready to help, whether it's to push a stuck driver out of the ditch, or to prepare a warm meal for those in need. I particularly feel for the road workers, those who deliver heating fuel, and those who work for the power companies. I have family members who work each of these jobs, and I know how long and hard they work to take care of everyone. While our work here at the paper doesn't require us to be out in the elements for long, just getting here was something of a challenge. I've never seen this little town look so forsaken as it did on Monday and Tuesday. Winter will soon be over though. February is about gone, and there's the hope that if March comes in like a lion, it'll go out like a lamb. I'm really looking forward to two dates in March—the day we “spring” our clocks forward for an extra hour of daylight, and the first day of spring. Actually, I have another reason to celebrate the first day of spring. The hubs and my wedding anniversary is on that day. I won't say how long we've been married, because you probably wouldn't believe we are that old--wink, wink. All these special dates are reminders that gardening season is drawing near. I know of a few go-getters who planted their peas on Valentine's Day, but we weren't among them. That means there is work to be done when the weather fairs up. In the meantime, I'll have to daydream. This weekend, while my hubby watched the Daytona 500, I browsed through a book about about glamping, or glamour camping. My hungry eyes ate up photos of green landscapes, beautiful campsites, creative s'more recipes...it was a real visual treat. Stuff like that fortifies me to get through the winter. Speaking of visual treats, I'm happy to announce a new staff member—Marla Marrs has joined us at the Citizen Voice and Times. She will specialize in photography and graphic design. Many of you know that she grew up here and snapped a lot of pictures for the high school year book before she went away to college. She's a talented and pleasant young lady, and I'm beyond tickled to have her help. We hope to be churning out a better-looking product with her help. .... Regarding another of my favorite things to talk about, long winter evenings aren't so bad when we get to spend them playing with the grandkids. Ours are growing so fast, and both are now doing great. Clay had a round with RSV which turned into pneumonia and put him in the hospital for about a week around the beginning of the year. Thankfully, he is a lot better now. Oaklee is already six months old, sitting up on her own, and getting cuter every day. They sure brighten Nan and Papaws' days. Whatever is going on close to home and around the world, there is always something for which we can be thankful. I hope as winter winds down, you too gain a new bounce in your step as you look ahead to a new season. Have a great week and remember, spring is just around the corner!

They work for you. Call them any time.

Marrs: Looking forward to getting re-aquainted

By MARLA MARRS
CV&T Designer/Photographer

I began my first week at the Citizen Voice & Times last week. It was a tough first week due to the snow--I did not think I would ever make it into the office to start my new job. When I was finally able to though, I was warmly welcomed at the CV&T. I am excited to be a part of such a wonderful staff. I will also be pitching a hand at the Clay City Times. My role at the papers will consist of design and photography. I realize that half, if not most of the county knows I have a passion for photography, but many of you all probably do not know I am also a graphic designer. I'm the daughter of Brenda Raider Marrs and Fred Marrs. My mom is originally from Irvine and my dad is from Lexington. In 2010 I graduated from Estill County High School and attended Eastern Kentucky University the following August, majoring in graphic design. It was an easy choice. I have wanted to study graphic design and photography since I was in the 7th or 8th grade! In high school, I was an active member of the yearbook staff for three years, a part of student council, and Student Technically Leader Ship Program (STLP ). While I was at college, I was a photographer and photo editor for our school's newspaper, The Eastern Progress, for two years, and a member of our AIGA

Club (American Professional Organization for Design). I graduated from ECU in May, 2014. In April 2014 I began working for Wall Street Greetings, in Versailles, Kentucky. They are a corporate greeting card company. My contract ended in December 2014, and I decided to look for something a bit closer to home. Although I've been away for four years due to college, I'm still an Estill Countain at heart. I look forward to getting reacquainted with the town and the people. Don't hesitate to stop me when you see me out and about and say hello.

Mollette: Boots on the ground

By Glenn Mollette
Columnist

The war against ISIS may require boots on the ground. These boots should not be the soldiers of the United States of America. I have been as incensed as any other American over the barbaric beheadings of our own Americans, and burning of a recent Jordanian prisoner. Isis is truly the scum of the earth. They are worse than scum. My Christian upbringing will not allow me to use words to express my feelings about Isis. They are evil and need to be eliminated from the planet. Our world cannot tolerate this cancer that is filled with such vicious hate for the rest of the planet. America should help, but not with boots on the ground. Isis would love nothing more than for America to send 20,000 troops over to fight with them. That's not the answer. We've had boots on the ground for too many years in Afghanistan and Iraq. Americans are sick and tired of the Middle East. For years the Middle East manipulated us with their vast amounts of oil. America has worried too much about the flow of oil from this part of the world because of our dependence on oil. We have plenty of energy and we must stop all senseless Middle East wars just to protect oil interests. The boots on the ground against Isis should be the people in the region where Isis is at work. America can help with air strikes that already are costing us millions of dollars. America has the best intelligence in the world. Let's use our intelligence forces, drones, air strikes and strategically coordinate with Jordan, Turkey, Israel, Iraq and Afghanistan the elimination of Isis, for a time. Unfortunately this will be a malignancy that will come back. This is all the more reason why the people in the Middle East must be do the ground work.

Why get into a ground war that will cost us two trillion dollars and sacrifice 4000 more of our men and women? This would become a war that would be another ten years or maybe an assault that might go on forever. The armies and soldiers of the Middle East can fight this war. We can help them with arms, intelligence, airstrikes and money but keep our troops off the ground. Kobani is a good example. After 112 days of fighting and many US and Arab airstrikes the Kurdish fighters took back the city of Kobani. The city is in ruins. However the Kurds with US and Arab air support eventually ran Isis out of this strategic spot. With weapons, ammunition, air support and our Intelligence helping these Kurdish fighters, Jordan and other Arab allies we can eventually beat back and destroy much of Isis for the time being.

In the meantime we must secure our own nation. As terror plots are hatched in our own country it will be up to us to defend America. When those times come, America will have boots on the ground-all of our boots.

Carhartt Memories

Margaret Lou Durbin
Guest Columnist

When I went to work at Carhartt, gas was 29 cent a gallon and I bought $2 worth each week at John Winn’s. Of course the minimum wage was only $1.25 an hour and since the sewing jobs at Carhartt were, and still are, incentive jobs, that was all I made until I built my percentage up. With a 40-hour work week I made $50, less taxes and insurance. I brought home $43.50.

In those days you could buy as much or more than you can on today’s wages. My first job was in the shirt department, setting sleeves and under-arm seaming the shirts in a combined operation on a machine called “off arm felling.” When I retired almost 47 years later, I still was working on an off arm felling machine—the only classification I ever had, but believe me I didn’t think I would ever learn to control that monster.

A few weeks after I went to work, I became good friends with a co-worker Gloria Vance—she put the button on the shirts. When we would go on break she would have her pad and pencil and always figure her time. One day I told her that I wanted to learn how to do that. Learning to figure my own time was a huge help to me. It gave me the opportunity to track my own progress. After a while I realized that the higher percentage I made, the more money I made, and since I had been trained by and worked with operators with 25 to 30 years seniority, it was a pride thing for all of us.

I don’t think any of us can say that we haven’t complained about our job from time to time, but the bottom line is we all make our own work record.

We should all ask ourselves from time to time, “Would I hire me if I was the boss?”

I have enjoyed so many stories shared with me by the older Carhartt workers, including one shared by Violet Dozier (retired) about the plant having two unions when they had a Cap Department. Part of the plant was represented by United Garment Workers Local 106 and the Cap Department was represented by the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union, she also shared the Charter for this union with me.

Another was told by my very dear friend, Anna Eliza Wiseman, about walking to work from Sweet Lick. She would do this each day regardless of the weather and has told me many times “I would stop at Granny’s and warm,” then go on to the factory. Granny lived on Laurel Street. We all owe her and many others like her for their dedication which made it possible for the rest of us to have a job close to home.

The Carhartt Restaurant

Before Carhartt had a cafeteria, there was this little eatery across the road from the factory which was operated by the Calmes family. Pictured is Bessie Crouch, grandmother of current Carhartt employee Kathy Blankenship.

Above, the look of the sewing factory has changed a lot over the years. Below is a small portion of the original Carhartt stock holders. The stock was purchased on May 15, 1931.

Quotes from Billy Graham

“God has given us two hands, one to receive with and the other to give with.”

“The greatest legacy one can pass on to one’s children and grandchildren is not money or other material things accumulated in one’s life, but rather a legacy of character and faith.”

“The Christian life is not a constant high. I have my moments of deep discouragement. I have to go to God in prayer with tears in my eyes, and say, ‘O God, forgive me,’ or ‘Help me.’”

“Tears shed for self are tears of weakness, but tears shed for others are a sign of strength.”

“When wealth is lost, nothing is lost; when health is lost, something is lost; when character is lost, all is lost.”

“God proved His love on the Cross. When Christ hung, and bled, and died, it was God saying to the world, ‘I love you.’”

“The highest form of worship is the worship of unselfish Christian service. The greatest form of praise is the sound of consecrated feet seeking out the lost and helpless.”

“No matter how prepared you think you are for the death of a loved one, it still comes as a shock, and it still hurts very deeply.”

“When granted many years of life, growing old in age is natural, but growing old with grace is a choice. Growing older with grace is possible for all who will set their hearts and minds on the Giver of grace, the Lord Jesus Christ.”

FCCLA Week observed at ECHS

FCCLA Week was observed at Estill County High School during the week of February 9-13. The week began with the signing of a proclamation at the Courthouse by Judge Executive Wallace Taylor. Tuesday was “Mathlete vs. Athlete Day,” and Friday was “Share the Love Day.” Students were supposed to wear pink, red or their favorite Valentine’s sweaters to show their love. FCCLA officers came in at 6 a.m. and prepared breakfast for faculty and staff to show their appreciation.

Mathlete vs. Athlete Day: Kaylee Isfort, Debbie Anders and Ceanna Baker, ECU Student Teacher.

Teacher Appreciation Breakfast: Randy Sutter, Greg Horn, Jeff Burchfield, and Corey Stringfield.

These tips may help students do better on the ACT

Juniors in the state’s public high schools will take the ACT on March 3. These tips from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) may be helpful.

·Read, read, read. Most of the ACT is based on reading. The more you read, the better you’ll do.

·Take advantage of any free ACT prep courses offered by your school or by local colleges and libraries.

·Take practice tests online or buy practice tests for use at home.

·Familiarize yourself with the sections and directions.

·Get plenty of rest the night before, and eat a good breakfast that morning.

·Remember to take No. 2 pencils and a calculator if your school doesn’t provide them.

Students should remember to put their Social Security number on the ACT so KHEAA will know if they qualify for a bonus award through the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES) program.

KHEAA is the state agency that promotes college awareness, provides free college planning materials and administers state student aid programs, including KEES.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602; or call (800) 928-8926, ext. 6-7372.

An Encouraging Word: An Absolutute Necessity

By Howard Coop

The old house on Hegira Road that was my childhood home lacked many things, but it contained one very important thing. My parents, a good mother and a good father, understood a basic principle of life, and they attempted to apply that principle in that old house: If children grow up to be responsible persons, they must be taught to accept self-control or self-discipline.

As I reflected upon those by-gone days and the training, sometimes administered with loving sternness, I received, words of Eileen Guder came to my mind, "But the whole point of training, or educating children, is to teach them to take responsibility for themselves."

One does not achieve a desired goal in life merely by wishing for that goal. The self must be disciplined to do what is necessary to attain it. The road that leads to success in life is paved with self-control. Harry Truman, the thirty-third president of the United States, said, "In reading the lives of great men, I found that the first victory they won was over themselves...self-discipline with all of them came first."

That's not new; it's been around for many centuries. Plato, the Greek philosopher of the fourth century B.C., said, "For a man to conquer himself is the first and noblest of victories," Thucydides, the Greek historian of about the same time, said, "Self-control is the chief element of self-respect, and self-respect is the chief element in courage," and Dietrich Bonhoeffer said, "Strict exercise of self-control is an essential feature" of life.

John Major got it right when he said, "It is time to return to core values, time to get back to basics, to self-discipline and respect for the law, to consideration of others, to accept responsibility for yourself and your family---and not shuffling it off on other people."

Self-discipline, defined as "planned control and training of oneself for the sake of development," is an absolute necessity if life is to be successful and rewarding.

BEGINNING at a 1/2" rebar found with red plastic cap "Astec 2050" in the east right-of-way of Cobhill Road (KY 1182), 30 feet from centerline, said rebar claimed by Katherine Elmore as the location of a hickory called for which is now gone; corner is common to Katherine Case Elmore parcel (Will Book O page 82); THENCE leaving said road with Elmore parcel for two (2) calls; South 42°41'45" East, 100.40 feet to a 1/2" rebar found with red plastic cab "ASTECC 2050" in a wooded area, "marked tree" called for not found this survey, said rebar claimed by Katherine Elmore as location for said marked tree; N 84°56'04" East, 199.8 feet to an 8" inch black gum found with old marks and red paint in line with old fence coming from the southwest, from which black gum a 1/2" rebar found with red plastic cap "Astec 2505" bears South 53°44'13" West, 0.64 feet, corner common to said Elmore parcel and to Nathan & Shawna Stewart parcel (DB 252 page 785) and to Charles & Faye Stewart parcel (DB 246 page 218); THENCE with Nathan & Shawna Stewart parcel for two (2) calls: North 20°42'54" West, 155.83 feet to a 7" black locust found near corner of old fence, from which locust a 1/2" rebar found with red plastic cap "Astec 2505" bears South 41°37'41" West, 0.56 feet; North 76°27'37" West, 148.42 feet to a point in the east right-of-way of Cob Hill Road, witnessed by an 8" and 12" forked white oak found, "Marked tree" called for, which bears North 76°27'37" West, 11.68 feet, THENCE with said right-of-way the following meandering calls: South 22°16'55" West, 52.10 feet to a point; South 30°44'55" West, 51.25 feet to a point; South 34°07'54" West, 38.78 feet to a point of Beginning, and containing 0.82 acre according to survey by Kevin N. Davis, PLS 3535, with Blake Adams Engineering dated February 10, 2006. °°
Being the same property conveyed to William C. Hall and Geraldine Hall, husband and wife, from Ernest P. Rogers and Leora Rogers, husband and wife, by Deed dated April 6, 2010, and of record in Deed Book 28, Page 418, Estill County Court Clerk's Office.
Subject to any and all applicable restrictive covenants, existing easements, utility easements, right-of-ways, provisions of applicable zoning statutes and ordinances, and rules and regulations of the Department of Health, if any, and regulations that might apply through planning and zoning.
The above described property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions: 1. The purchaser shall take the sale real estate free and clear of the claims of the parties to this action, but it shall be sold subject to the following: a. current year (2015) ad valorem real estate taxes affecting the real estate for which the purchaser shall take no credit on the purchase price; b. easements, restrictions, and stipulations of record; c. any current assessments for public improvements levied against the property; and d. any matters which would be disclosed by an accurate survey or inspection of the property. 2. The sale shall be made to the highest bidder or bidders. The successful bidder shall pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for sixty (60) days. Any purchaser, other than the Plaintiff, who does not pay cash in full, shall be required to execute a bond, with surety thereon acceptable to the Master Commissioner to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price, and sale bond shall bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of sale until paid and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain and be a lien on the property until paid. The purchasers shall have the privilege of paying all of the balance of the purchase price prior to the expiration of the sixty (60) day period. 3. The successful bidder at sale, at bidder's own expense, may carry fire and extended insurance coverage on the improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, in an amount at least sufficient to cover a loss to the extent of the court appraised value of the improvements on the real estate or the unpaid balance of the purchase price is fully paid, in whichever amount is less, with the loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance coverage shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, any party adjudicated an interest in the real estate, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish evidence of the policy to the Master Commissioner. The premium of the insurance policy shall then be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost. 4. In the event the Plaintiff becomes the purchaser of the real estate at the Master Commissioner's sale, and if the Plaintiff's bid is less than its lien adjudged herein, Plaintiff may comply with the terms of sale by taking credit upon this judgment without making the cash deposit or executing the sale bond as provided for in this judgment.

Pulling Wood in Winter with My 8N

by Jerry Eltzroth
CVT Contributor

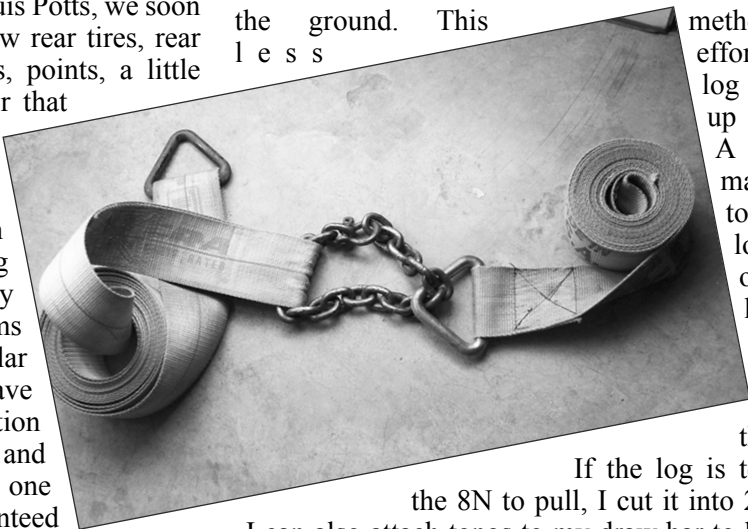

Our 100 acre Kentucky farmhas been in the same family for 111 years now. Of course everybody wonders how some Yankee came to own it since I was born and raised in Dayton, Ohio. My great grandparents bought this farm in 1904. My wife, Bonnie, and I live in an area of eastern Kentucky called the Knobs or where ‘the Bluegrass kisses the mountains.’ About the only thing we grow on the farm are trees, gardens and grandchildren. About 50 acres of the farm is forest. I bought my 8N tractor from a fellow in the next county nearly 20 years ago. It had a few problems, but with the help of my mechanic son-in-law, Louis Potts, we soon had it in good operating condition—new rear tires, rear wheel seal, new wiring harness, plugs, points, a little paint, etc. The 8N has a serial number that indicates it was manufactured in 1948. I read in an issue of N-News that if it had a certain part it was really made in 1947--which it does. Since I was born in 1947 we are the same age. It is humbling to know that the tractor will probably outlast me. I have had very few problems with the tractor and maintain it on a regular basis. About the only alteration I have made to the tractor is the electronic ignition which replaced the points, condenser, and magneto. I bought the ignition kit from one of the N-News advertisers. It was guaranteed for two years and it lasted six years before I had to replace it with another. The tractor runs and starts better with the electronic ignition. My 8N is a working tractor and does not get babied very much; however, it does get sheltered in the barn. In warm weather the tractor is used for bush-hogging, to plow/disc-ing the gardens, grading the lanes and other general duties. During cold weather, I use the tractor to drag logs that will become our firewood for the next winter season. I utilize the tractor carryall to resupply my firewood that I keep in the basement wood rack. Our heat pump never runs in the winter months.

I use the straps shown in the attached pictures to pull logs with my 8N. The straps are the type that truckers the ground. This

had the 8N to pull, I cut it into 2 or 3 pieces. I can also attach tongs to my draw bar to lift the end of the log off the ground. To keep the draw bar from rotating I added a device to it that I also ordered from one of the N-News advertisers. I can combine 3 or 4 straps (each about 25 feet in length) together with short loops of chain if I have a long reach to bring a log from a hillside. The 8N grumbles if the pull is uphill with a large log. One piece of safety advice: always make sure the strap is attached to a belly hitch when trying to pull anything. My son-in-use to secure their loads, with a 15,000 lb. rating. There is a triangular iron on one end that fits perfectly over a 2” trailer ball hitch. The other end I have sewn into an eyelet big enough for the triangular iron to pass through. I loop the strap around the log, attach the iron to my ball hitch and drag the log to a more accessible area. I made straps of various lengths to accommodate different diameter logs. By using the short straps I can raise the end of the log off the ground. This method requires effort to drag the log and I plow up less ground. A short strap makes it easier to snake the log around obstacles. I have pulled logs up to 36” in diameter in this manner.

If the log is too heavy for the 8N to pull, I cut it into 2 or 3 pieces. I can also attach tongs to my draw bar to lift the end of the log off the ground. To keep the draw bar from rotating I added a device to it that I also ordered from one of the N-News advertisers. I can combine 3 or 4 straps (each about 25 feet in length) together with short loops of chain if I have a long reach to bring a log from a hillside. The 8N grumbles if the pull is uphill with a large log. One piece of safety advice: always make sure the strap is attached to a belly hitch when trying to pull anything. My son-in-law worked at a company that serviced tractor trailer rigs. If the straps were the least bit worn they were thrown in the dumpster and replaced. He salvaged dozens of these straps for me and had the idea for their use. It sure beats handling heavy chains.

I look forward to every issue of N-News. The maintenance and repair tips are very helpful. The stories by other tractor owners are very interesting. Keep up the good work.

Safety Tips

- ❑ Attach the strap (or chain) to a belly hitch, NEVER the top link. Using the top link as a pulling point is a recipe for flipping the tractor backwards.
- ❑ Mount some weights on the front of the tractor.
- ❑ Pull from the lower tow hitch (belly hitch) mounted beneath the rear housing. This keeps most of the force as low on the tractor as possible. The lower the pulling point, the better. Take the tow strap and guide it OVER the drawbar. The drawbar is then lifted just enough to get the front of the log off the ground. If you apply too much lift to the log you can pull the iron triangle or chain from the ball hitch.
- ❑ Whenever you get on or off the tractor you should set the brakes to avoid a roll away. It is best to have a helper who can attach the strap (or chain) and watch the drag path for obstacles.

- ❑ Map out your drag path in order to avoid stumps, large rocks, other obstacles that can get a log hung up.
- ❑ The log will act as a brake in downhill drags but be careful that the 8N does not jump out of gear. Keep your hand on the shift lever to prevent this. If you do not have a log to slow your descent and the 8N tractor jumps out of gear, you will have a dangerous downhill ride unless you have a wide flat area in which to land.
- ❑ If the strap is frayed, replace it. A sudden jerk could rip it apart.

- ❑ When the ground is frozen, you will lose all traction, so avoid all steep grades.
- ❑ A log will follow gravity’s nudge and can start rolling sideways on the slightest incline. Make sure everybody and any equipment is out of the log’s path. I have found that if I keep the log on a short leash, there is less chance a log will roll sideways as long as I’m in forward motion.
- ❑ Logging is dangerous work – remember this always.
- ❑ If my carryall is fully loaded, it tends to make the front end lift which hinders steering when going uphill. At times, you might have to back up a grade.

Baker’s Column :Growing peas

from Eric Baker

Peas (Pisum sativum) are a cool-season vegetable that must be planted in early spring to ensure good yields in Kentucky. Types include the English pea (shelled for the fresh green seeds within non-edible pods), sugar snap types (round, fleshy edible pods), and Asian pod types (thin, flat edible pods; also called snow peas). Peas can be grown on almost any soil and will tolerate a wide pH range from 6.0 to 7.5. However, lighter sandy loam soils are preferred since they warm up sooner in the spring which yields an earlier harvest. Although peas do benefit from supplemental irrigation, they are very sensitive to excessive moisture. Select a well-drained site to reduce the potential of root and stem rots that often plague peas in wet soils. Peas should not follow other legumes, such as beans or southern peas.

Peas grow best between 55 and 65 degrees Fahrenheit (F). Seeds should be planted as soon as the soil can be worked and when soil temperatures reach 45 degrees F. At soil temperatures above 75 degrees F, germination is greatly reduced and plant growth slows dramatically above 85 degrees F. High temperatures also lead to poor flower development and fruit set. Stagger plantings for a continuous harvest of peas throughout the spring.

English peas mature rapidly in the pod, while snow peas and sugar snap peas mature at a much slower rate. Peas should be monitored closely during pod-fill to ensure that quality is maintained. After harvest, peas must be promptly cooled to maintain freshness and to preserve sugar content. Much like sweet corn, the sugars in peas can quickly turn to starch if they are not stored at cool (32 to 34 degrees F) temperatures immediately after harvest. Peas stored in plastic bags will keep for 10 days under refrigeration without loss of quality.

English peas are picked as soon as the pods are well-filled, but before they harden and fade in color. A single planting may yield two to three harvests.

Edible Asian pod peas are harvested while the peas are immature and pods are flat. Pods should be harvested every other day to prevent development of large seeds and tough pods.

Edible pod snap peas can be harvested when peas begin to form, continuing up until pods are well filled.

Select disease resistant varieties for the garden

from Eric Baker

To pass the time in cold, snowy weather, I like to think about gardening. Seed and nursery catalogues help bring visions of the next garden and the delicious produce it yields. Catalogues offer so many choices it is hard to pick the best varieties. The same catalogues that bring dreams of the perfect garden contain a wealth of information about varieties that will help prevent garden plant diseases caused by fungi, bacteria, viruses and nematodes. Most catalogues will state what to expect in disease resistance for each variety. Letters often are used as abbreviations in the fine print. An example is tomato disease resistance where F is for Fusarium wilt, V for Verticillium wilt, and N for root knot nematode.

Using disease-resistant plants is the safest, most reliable way to control garden diseases. It doesn’t matter if pathogen populations are abundant, or conditions are ripe for disease development, because resistant varieties provide strong biological protection from disease. In addition, resistant varieties generate good yields without having to resort to costly chemical or laborious cultural controls.

By selecting varieties that resist disease, you are investing in the safe, biological way to control devastating diseases in the garden. A publication lists disease resistant vegetables recommended for Kentucky is UK Extension Publication ID-133, entitled Vegetable Cultivars for Kentucky Gardens. Stop by our office at 76 Golden Court (off Stacy Lane) or go to the internet website <http://www.ca.uky.edu/agc/pubs/id/id133/id133.pdf> to print your own copy.

Kentucky Master Logger continuing education classes

from Eric Baker

Logging directly contributes $1 billion a year to Kentucky’s economy. Loggers must have and maintain a certification in order to operate in the state. Kentucky Master Loggers will have the opportunity to enroll in two upcoming continuing education classes. The web-based sessions will take place in 15 county Cooperative Extension offices around the state.

The first class will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. EDT on March 10. Subjects covered will include new trucking regulations, updates on logging legislation, the tie and stage log markets, the pulpwood market and the forest industry economic report for 2014 to 2015.

The second session will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. EDT March 17 and cover updates on the sawlog market and forest health; an interview with a Certified Master Logger whose life was saved because of having an emergency plan; biomass and chip mill development; new ticks and diseases; Best Management Practices inspection procedures; information about the top BMP issues; and changes in Occupational Safety and Health Administration requirements for loggers.

Participants will be eligible for three continuing education units for each class. The programs will originate from the UK campus and stream live to extension offices in Edmonson, Estill, Harlan, Hopkins, Lawrence, Letcher, Lewis, Lyon, Perry, Pike, Pulaski, Rowan, Scott, Taylor, and Whitley counties. The format will allow the participants to ask questions of the presenters.

The cost is $25 per class. Registration forms are available in The Kentucky LogJam newsletter or online at <http://www.masterlogger.org>. Interested participants can call the Kentucky Master Logger office, 1-800-859-6006.

E.S.T.I.L.L. Action Group to hold first meeting

The ESTILL Action Group, Everyone Striving To Improve Local Living, is a newly founded group of like-minded individuals, who call themselves the “Actioneers.” The group’s mission is: “To take pride in Estill County—to encourage one another and to share ideas. To empower each other to use their voices, talents, and any resource they possess to better and beautify our community. To keep an open mind and enlighten others through ideas & change. To work together and achieve a common goal—to simply “do something.” To leave behind our community a better way.” The Actioneers would like to invite YOU to the Estill Action Idea Exchange on March 4, at 6:30 p.m. at the Estill County Extension Office. We’d like to share our vision & current projects, but most of all, we want to hear about your ideas and your vision for Estill County. We’re all in this together, so let’s join forces and make it OUR vision and together make OUR home a better place.

Hope to see you there!

Porcupine Beef Ball

Preheat oven to a low heat.
½ c uncooked rice
1 pound ground beef
1 ½ tsp of salt
¼ tsp of pepper
2 tsps of minced onions
2 tsp cooking oil
1 c. Campbell’s Tomato soup
1 c. hot water
Combine rice, beef, salt, pepper, onions, mix and then shape into 12 balls. Brown balls in cooking oil, add tomato soup and water. Cover and cook 1 ½ hours in oven until rice is tender. Makes six servings.

Race Day Cookies

Preheat oven to 350.
1 cup (2 sticks) of butter
2/3 cup brown sugar
2/3 cup sugar
1 egg
1 ½ tsp. vanilla extract
2 cups flower
1 ¼ tsp. baking soda
1 tps. salt
1 ¾ cups of M&M Brand milk
Chocolate candies

In a large bowl, cream butter and both sugars until well blended. Add the egg and vanilla extracts, and mix to combine. In a separate bowl, sift the flour, baking soda and salt together. Slowly add these ingredients into the butter mixture; stir until combined. Fold in the M&M and chill the dough for 1 hour or overnight. Drop dough by rounded tablespoons onto a lightly greased tray, about 2 inches apart. Baked for 8 to 10 minutes for chewy cookies or 12-14 minutes for crispy cookies. Store any leftovers in an airtight container. Makes 24-30 cookies.

Salad dressing

14 oz. catsup
1/2 c. salad oil
¼ c. vinegar
¼ c. of water
Juice of 1 lemon
1 medium size mango chopped
1 c. sugar
1 tps salt
1 medium size onion chopped
Put in a quart jar and store in refrigerator.

Microwave Peanut Brittle

1 c. of sugar
1 tsp of vanilla
½ c. of white corn syrup
1 teaspoon of butter
1 tsp of baking soda
1 c. of roasted salt peanuts
In a ½ qt casserole dish stir together sugar and syrup. Microwave at high for 4 minutes. Stir in peanuts and microwave at high for 4 minutes until brown. Add butter and vanilla to syrup blending well. Microwave at high for two minutes or until the peanuts are lightly browned. The syrup will be very hot. Add baking soda and gently stir until light and foamy. Our mixture into lightly greased cookie sheet. Let cool for ½ to 1 hour. Break into small pieces and store in air tight container. Makes 1 pound. This recipe is for a 700 watt microwave. You will need to adjust accordingly.

Peach dump cake

Preheat oven to 350.
2 large can of peaches
1 small pack of peach Jell-O (Dry)
1 stick of butter (cut up)
1 yellow cake mix
Use a 13X9 pan. Drain 1 can of peaches out of the two (keep the juice of one can); place peaches in pan then add the dry Jell-O. Add the dry cake mix, butter, and then add juice from one can of peaches. Make sure the mixture is fully wet.

Lady Engineers fall at Districts to Owsley

by Andrew Hatton
CVT Sports Writer

The Lady Engineers lost in the first round of the 56th District Tournament to Owsley County on Monday night by a score of 55-45. Estill had swept the regular season series with the Lady Owls but were unable to defeat them for a third time.

The gymnasium in Booneville was buzzing just before tip-off from the result of the previous game. Lee County had just upset heavy favorites Powell County, opening the door for another team to swoop in and grab the title.

Perhaps it was the angst from this newfound pressure or perhaps it was the two-week layoff caused by the recent weather conditions, but the Lady Engineers got off to a slow start. Estill was down 17-4 at the end of the first quarter; this deficit would end up being too much to overcome.

Owsley's size in the paint created match-up problems for Estill the entire game. The front-court of the Lady Owls scored almost at-will at different points in the game, making it difficult for the Lady Engineers to make consistent defensive stops.

The zone-defense of the Lady Owls also gave Estill fits early on, forcing them into a poor shot selection and ultimately, a poor shooting percentage.

Estill would turn up the defensive pressure as the game went on, forcing turnover after turnover. Efforts by Taylor Young, Bethany Hall and Jordyn Rose, among others, at the defensive end were the driving force that brought the Lady Engineers back into the game.

The Lady Owls seemed to struggle at times to deal with the Lady Engineer pressure, but did just enough to keep Estill from completing the comeback.

Senior Kennedy Flynn went on the attack in the second half, earning several trips to the foul line. The aggressiveness by Flynn and others in attacking the Owsley
